The Fire Protection International Consortium, Inc. can provide consulting services for the Fire Protection and Life Safety requirements found in today's complex Building, Fire and Life Safety Codes. If your design team needs to add expertise specific to Fire Protection and Life Safety, you can contact any of our offices located across the U.S.

We can assist early in the design process by identifying State and Local code changes that might impact your design and facilitating a comprehensive fire protection and life safety code analysis.

If you are nearing the end of your design or even nearing completion of construction, fire protection challenges can still arise. The FPI can be brought in to help:

- Assess a changing requirement from the AHJ
- Develop a strategy for compliance with an overlooked requirement
- Develop a performance based solution to a challenging design concept

Code consulting services may include:

- Coordination with local authorities
- Third Party Plan review
- Peer Review
- Code Interpretations
- Development or analysis of code compliance alternatives
- Code compliance report writing
- Smoke Control Rational Analysis
